Jessica Kordas (R) is running for her first position in public office. She has worked as a trial lawyer in both criminal and civil cases. She believes her experience as an attorney and her background managing medical facilities and assisting financial traders qualify her for the attorney general's office.

If elected, she plans to advocate parents' rights, freedom of speech, and government accountability, stating that the office of the Attorney General cannot longer be a platform for self-interested politicians.

Kordas was involved in contesting mask mandates during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Trivia: Kordas has been named a "rising star" in the legal profession by Super Lawyers for six years in a row.
