

MASSACHUSETTS

Voters in the Commonwealth will select a governor, attorney general, and treasurer this election cycle. Forty (40) out of 99 senate seats and all 160 house seats are also up for election. Democrats are expected to control all executive offices and maintain their supermajorities in the house and senate.

Attorney General

Democratic Nominee

Attorney General Andrea Campbell

Attorney General Andrea Campbell began her career as a legal services attorney defending the rights of children with disabilities and later went on to serve as legal counsel to Governor Deval Patrick (D). Campbell served six years in the Boston City Council where she became the first Black woman elected as president of the Council.

Since taking office, Campbell has sued the Trump administration more than 50 times. In March 2025, Campbell led a coalition of 21 attorneys general in filing a lawsuit against the Trump administration for their efforts to dismantle the Department of Education.

Campbell has filed suit against the pharmaceutical industry, pharmacy benefit managers, and utility companies. She joined other attorneys general in lawsuits against Amazon, Live Nation, and UnitedHealth for their unfair business practices that drove up consumer costs.

Online children's safety is a centerpiece of Campbell's platform. She has filed multiple lawsuits against big tech companies including Meta and TikTok for deliberately designing their platforms to exploit young users.

She also sued JUUL for marketing their products to children and sparking a teen vaping epidemic. She ultimately secured a $600 million settlement from the company.

Campbell played a monumental role in implementing the MBTA Communities Act, which requires communities served by public transit to allow multifamily homes, helping to provide families with more affordable housing options.

Trivia: Andrea Campbell is a first-generation college student, graduating from Princeton University and later UCLA Law School.
