Voters in Florida will elect a governor, lieutenant governor, and attorney general. All 120 state house seats and 20 of 40 state senate seats are up for election. Florida remains firmly Republican at the state level, but Democrats are looking to make legislative gains in select districts, particularly following the state's mid-decade redistricting.

Chief Financial Officer

Republican Nominee

Chief Financial Officer Blaise Ingoglia

Originally from New York, Ingoglia moved to Spring Hill, Florida, in 1996 with $1,600 and built a career as a mortgage broker before founding Hartland Homes, a homebuilding company focused on helping working families achieve homeownership.

Ingoglia entered elected office in the Florida House of Representatives in 2014, representing the 35th District until 2022. He then served in the Florida Senate representing the 11th District from 2022 to 2025. He also chaired the Republican Party of Florida from 2015 to 2019.

As CFO, Ingoglia has made making Florida more affordable his top priority, with an emphasis on lowering property taxes and reducing insurance costs for Floridians. His office also oversees programs involving insurance fraud, arson, public assistance fraud, financial literacy, and emergency response

Trivia: Before entering politics, Ingoglia used a camcorder and YouTube channel to launch his "Government Gone Wild" campaign, which attracted nearly 8 million views,
