

OKLAHOMA

Voters in the Sooner State will head to the polls to select a new governor as Governor Kevin Stitt (R) is term limited. Voters will also select their picks for attorney general and treasurer.

Twenty-four (24) out of 48 senate seats and all 101 house seats are also up for election. Republicans are expected to maintain control of the executive branch and state legislature.

Governor

Democratic Nominee

State Representative Cyndi Munson

Cyndi Munson has served in the Oklahoma House of Representatives since 2015, including two legislative sessions as House Minority Leader. Munson previously worked for Girl Scouts of Western Oklahoma where she coordinated programs for girls in low-income schools, juvenile detention centers, and public housing.

Throughout her time in the legislature, Munson has vocally criticized the state's abortion ban, the mandating teaching of Bibles in public schools, and the infringement on tribal sovereignty.

Munson is committed to strengthening tribal relationships, accusing the Stitt administration of "aggressive behavior" against state tribes. She vows to work in partnership with state tribes.

Munson's platform centers on affordability, citing her bipartisan efforts in eliminating the state sales tax on groceries while in the legislature. She supports expanding childcare subsidies and implementing tax incentives to reward employers who cover childcare costs.

On healthcare, Munson will focus on lowering prescription drug costs and health insurance premiums. In addition, she promises to keep Medicaid expansion within the state constitution, rather than moving it into statute.

Munson's public education agenda calls to eliminate school voucher programs that divert millions of dollars from public schools. She will reallocate this funding back to public education and will prioritize increased teacher pay.

Munson has not taken an official position on data centers, focusing instead on expanding the energy industry through broader statewide investments in public education and healthcare.

The Cook Political Report and the Center for Politics Sabato's Crystal Ball label this race as Safe Republican.

Trivia: Cyndi Munson is the first Asian-American woman elected to the Oklahoma legislature.
