

WISCONSIN

Voters in Wisconsin will elect a new governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, and treasurer in November. The gubernatorial race is open this cycle as Governor Tony Evers (D) is term limited. All 99 assembly seats and 17 of the state's 33 senate seats are also on the ballot. The state is considered a competitive battleground with multiple toss up races up and down the ballot.

Treasurer

Republican Nominee

Treasurer John Leiber

Wisconsin Treasurer John Leiber (R) is seeking a second term and ran unopposed in the Republican primary. Before taking office, he served as president of his local Park and Recreation Commission and as a commissioner for his local Housing Authority. He also worked for the Wisconsin Department of Revenue and as a legislative aide in the state legislature.

Campaigning as a "true fiscal conservative," Leiber promises to run the state treasurer's office without expanding the reach of government.

His reelection campaign centers on his record, including his management of the $1.6 billion Common School Fund trust, and he has pledged to continue delivering strong investment returns for schools if reelected. The Common School Fund distributes money annually to K-12 school libraries for materials and technology and is the only dedicated funding for school libraries statewide. It is his top priority to ensure the fund continues to thrive in the future.

Leiber is the only Republican who currently holds an executive level office in the state.
