

FLORIDA

Voters in Florida will elect a governor, lieutenant governor, and attorney general. All 120 state house seats and 20 of 40 state senate seats are up for election. Florida remains firmly Republican at the state level, but Democrats are looking to make legislative gains in select districts, particularly following the state's mid-decade redistricting.

Attorney General

Democratic Nominee

Jose Javier Rodriguez

Jose Javier Rodríguez served in the Florida House of Representatives from 2012 to 2016 and the Florida Senate from 2016 to 2020, representing parts of Miami-Dade County. He later served as Assistant Secretary of Labor for Employment and Training in the Biden administration from 2024 to 2025.

Rodriguez' campaign priorities are focused around the state's crime rate, affordability, and government oversight and accountability.

Rodríguez has pledged to "hold Big Tech and social platforms" accountable for "hurting Florida's children." If elected, his office would address guardianship abuse and abuse in the state's nursing and assisted living homes. He supports providing additional resources to law enforcement to combat violent crimes and gun violence.

Around costs, he has vowed to investigate state monopoly electric utilities and insurance companies for rate inflations. He would also target companies that relay on algorithmic price increases on rent.

Rodríguez has promised to investigate the state's no-bid contracts and the state's public education dollars allotment and spending.

Trivia: Rodríguez is a Harvard Law School graduate and began his legal career representing low-income workers and communities in South Florida before entering elected office.
