

ARIZONA

Voters in Arizona will elect a governor, Lt. governor, attorney general, and treasurer. All executive races are considered to be competitive. All 30 state senate seats and all 60 state house seats are up for reelection. Republicans currently hold narrow majorities in both chambers. Democrats are targeting the legislature in an effort to gain control of one or both chambers, making Arizona one of the key state legislative battlegrounds in 2026.

Attorney General

Republican Nominee

State Senator Warren Petersen

Warren Petersen is the President of the Arizona State Senate and represents Legislative District 14, which includes parts of Maricopa County. Petersen has served in the Arizona Legislature since 2013, first as a member of the House of Representatives before being elected to the Senate. He was elected Senate President for the 2023–2024 session and continued in the role for the 2025–2026 legislative session.

Petersen has held several leadership positions in the legislature and has been involved in a range of issues including education, taxation, elections, government regulation, and constitutional policy. As Senate President, he has played a central role in setting the chamber's legislative agenda and overseeing chamber operations. He has emphasized limited government, individual liberties, and conservative policy priorities throughout his legislative career.

Petersen's campaign for Arizona Attorney General centers on defending the rule of law, protecting public safety, and limiting government overreach.

He emphasizes supporting law enforcement, holding criminals accountable, and restoring what he describes as trust and integrity in the Attorney General's Office.

His campaign also highlights protecting Second Amendment rights, defending Arizona's restrictions on participation in women's sports, and challenging government mandates and policies he views as unconstitutional.

The AG race is expected to be competitive.

Trivia: Petersen became the youngest Senate President in Arizona history when he first assumed the position in 2023.
